

May 26, 2010

Platinum opens fourth new office

Platinum Properties continues to grow. After opening a new Midtown East office in March, the company just announced it has just opened a fourth office located in Midtown West at the Hippodrome building at 1120 Avenue of the Americas.

Khashy Eyn, president and CEO of Platinum Properties, said, "There has been a lot of new inventory that has become available in the Midtown West market over the last year, and we've seen a terrific response from both buyers and renters. With our new office at the Hippodrome, in addition to our Midtown East location, Platinum is now better positioned to service our clients with faster access to and first-hand knowledge of property listings as they become available, in addition to our centralized presence which will enable us to become the go-to firm in the area as we are downtown."

Platinum's new office is currently headed by director of sales and leasing, Jared Wiener, and executive vice president Jeffrey Carlson.

In addition to sales and rentals, Platinum has recently expanded its services into property management, including its Platinum Management program for international investors, and launched an on-site leasing and sales division.